

WEBINAR: Audit Management in Food and Pharmaceutical Industries

Overview

An organization operating in industries like food and pharmaceuticals, which are subject to strict regulations, should always be ready for an audit. Demonstrating effective management of your facility, Quality Management System (QMS), and manufacturing process to auditors is essential, as initial perceptions are important. Hence, a successful audit heavily depends on having a well-designed audit program. This training session will offer useful tips and strategies for getting ready for an external audit.

Non-food and pharmaceutical companies will also see significant advantages from this training, as they are also susceptible to different kinds of external audits like client, regulatory, certification audits, among others.

Also, the company's quality unit must be thoroughly prepared and equipped to conduct supplier audits to ensure that the materials, products, or services received from suppliers, vendors, or business partners meet quality standards.

Objectives

Upon completion of this training, the participants will be able to:

- To know the success factors in handling audit (as an auditor and auditee).
